Urban Nature Mandala

by: Patrick M. Lydon and Suhee Kang

email: branch@sociocity.org

A team-building exercise that celebrates natural diversity, and connects us to local nature and to each other. Multiple teams work together to build a single mandala from local natural materials. The exercise invigorates our sense of connectedness, creative intuition, and creative problem solving.

Time Required: from 2 hours to multiple days

Group Size: from a few to hundreds

Feel, City, Nature

by: Patrick M. Lydon and Suhee Kang

email: branch@sociocity.org

A 'sensing' walk that helps participants focus their sense and awareness of a place, and sparks their creativity.

Goal: Participants come away with a calm and clear mind, a heightened sense of place and ability for creative problem solving.

Time Required: 30–60 minutes

Group Size: groups of 5–10 are ideal, but larger ones are possible

Exploring the Color of Season

by: Patrick M. Lydon and Suhee Kang

email: branch@sociocity.org

Using only natural materials from the immediate area, we discover a rich seasonal pallet of colors that can be used directly as paints. Everyone becomes an artist in this workshop as participants deepen their relationship with the natural environment and find new inspirations for making art.

Time Required: 1–4 hours

Group Size: from a few to hundreds
